Los diarios matinales de información La Vanguardía [1] y el ABC.es [2] han publicado un artículo sobre el Kit PGD-Seq [3] desarrollado por Bioarray capaz de detectar, en una sola biopsia, patologías monogénicas y los errores cromosómicos necesarios en el análisis de embriones para FIV.

Hoy en día este es un gran avance en la reproducción asistida, Luis A. Alcaraz añade que "corrimos el riesgo de seleccionar embriones que no fueran cromosómicamente normales, que no dieran lugar a implantación o que dieran a un niño afecto de Síndrome de Down"
